A MESSAGE FROM:

Reverend Monsignor Kieran Harrington, V.E.
Vicar for Communications for the Diocese of Brooklyn

Follow Msgr. Harrington @MonsignorH

Over the next several weeks, the presidential election will dominate the news coverage. As people of faith, we must prayerfully deliberate over which candidate to select. I would suggest that one area of consideration is religious freedom. We, Americans, should not kid ourselves that we are experiencing religious persecution. That would be an insult to all those Christians who offer their lives for Christ around the world. Nevertheless, we also must not discount that the Courts and some in our legislatures do seriously threaten religious freedom. The threat is not for freedom of worship but rather to the ability to live the kind of lives that religious faiths may dictate. May God bless you.
